About Dublin City Council

The Dublin City Council Heritage Office is part-funded by The Heritage Council and is concerned with refining and promoting an understanding and appreciation of the architectural, archaeological and cultural heritage of the city.

The Conservation Office of the Planning & Property Development Department provides professional advice to owners of protected structures on conservation issues, and oversees conservation grants and planning in relation to protected structures.

About the Irish Georgian Society

Our purpose is to encourage the appreciation and conservation of Ireland’s architecture and decorative arts. We are a charitable organisation founded in 1958 with 2,000 members. Membership is open to everyone; by joining you support our four programmes: Conservation Projects; Buildings at Risk; Scholarship & Publications; Conservation Education.

This conservation course is an action of the latter programme, which is supported by Merrion Property Group and Heather & John Picerne. Members attend the Society’s special events such as lectures, seminars, conferences and tours of architecturally significant buildings in Ireland and abroad, many of which are not accessible to the general public.

Architectural Walking Tour

Saturday 18th April 10.00am until 11.30am

Dr Susan Galavan, MRIAI, will lead a walking tour examining the architectural form, style and detailing of Northumberland Road, D2. Built over the course of six decades in the 19th century its buildings which vary from tall red-brick terraces to fine semi-detached houses provide an exemplar of the development of Dublin's Victorian domestic architecture.

The Irish Georgian Society and Dublin City Council have assembled a team of conservation experts to present a series of talks on the history and significance of Dublin's period houses and practical advice on their conservation. Attendance at the talks will greatly benefit owners of all periods and types of houses, from the modest Edwardian artisan dwelling to the substantial red-bricks of the Victorian suburbs and the fine townhouses of our Georgian city squares, providing an 'A to Z' for their care and conservation.

The lunchtime talks commence Tuesday 18th February 2020 at the Irish Georgian Society's City Assembly House, 58 South William Street, Dublin 2. It is possible to book talks individually or attend the full course. The talks are priced at €15, which you may pay for at the door or book in advance for a special reduced price of €125 for all twelve talks. Complementary to the Tuesday talks will be a Saturday morning walking tour, at an additional cost of €15.

The Conserving your Dublin Period House Course is an action of the Dublin City Heritage Plan and fulfils Dublin City Council's conservation policy to provide architectural advice to homeowners. The course will be useful for those considering an application to the Living Cities Initiative, a tax incentive scheme to assist and encourage people to live in the historic inner city areas of Dublin City. www.dublincity.ie/livingcity

These talks will also benefit building professionals and practitioners and are approved for CPD by the Royal Institute of Architects of Ireland, Engineers Ireland, the Irish Planning Institute and the Heritage Contractors.
